Emerging talent set to shine

A showcase of new talent will headline the features at the JAA Australian Jewellery Fair, Brisbane Exhibition Centre, South Bank, March 13 – 14, 2010. Exclusively for the jewellery industry, it is Australia's only event that focuses on the future outlook of the industry as a whole. It promises to be an insightful look into what 2010 will bring to the jewellery world.

This year's Fair will feature the major works of final year Jewellery Design students from the Queensland School of Art - Griffith University and South Bank Institute of TAFE. This provides students with the invaluable opportunity to showcase their talent to retailers in the industry. They are also able to talk to visitors about their pieces and design inspiration during the course of the Fair.

The JAA Australian Jewellery Fair will continue its focus on the future trends and will deliver a wide cross-section of content. With exhibitors from both Australia and overseas the Fair will provide buyers to opportunity to top up their stocks post Christmas. A variety of ranges and style of jewellery will be available including fine jewellery, high fashion and watches ranging from value-priced to the highest quality brands. Another important element to the show will be the exhibitors focusing on point-of-sale and merchandising solutions for retailers

The JAA Australian Jewellery Fair is committed to the long term growth and development of the Australian jewellery industry, as a result, we have developed a special feature called Career Links. This feature has been designed to deliver the best resources for exploring career opportunities, for the young (and not-so-young) members of the industry.

The Perk coffee lounge and the Connect networking lounge will allow you the opportunity to sit down with industry association representatives, exhibitors and other colleagues to discuss business opportunities.

The JAA Australian Jewellery Fair promises to be an event not to be missed, with more exciting features that will be announced shortly.
